Gasoline cutbacks for local dealers

The leading edge of a predicted fuel shortage darkened the economic skies for several Canyon service station operators and gasoline distributors last week as major national petroleum corporations initiated cutbacks in fuel supplies.

Local dealers for Phillips Petroleum Co., Conoco and Mobil Oil Corp., were hardest hit by cutbacks in fuel supplies for consumer use here.

Several local dealers say they have not been notified of cutbacks and still others say their operations won't be affected at all by fuel shortages.

An announced cutback of 10 per cent by Phillips Petroleum could have a serious effect here, according to Charles Brasher of Brasher Oil Co., distributor for Phillips in Randall County.

The reduction is actually 10 per cent based on gasoline usage for last spring.

"Certain parts of it will hurt because of the weather this year," Brasher said. "We'll have diesel fuel in demand at a time which last year was a slack period."

From his standpoint, the 10 per cent cutback will have most effect on diesel sales.

The tourist trade will also affect the gasoline availability.

Brasher said the three-month cutback could easily raise the price of gasoline.

As supplier for Randall County, Brasher supplies gasoline to one service station and many rural customers. He said the cutback will not immediately effect the service station.

"We can eliminate in other places before we get to that," he said.

He said if fuel quantities are severely limited, customers who must absolutely have gasoline to operate will be the last to feel the cutback.

While Phillips cut back 10 per cent, Conoco cut its supply to service stations in Canyon and the area by as much as 35 per cent.

Hard hit by Conoco's action is Gene Morrison, owner of WT Conoco in Canyon.

Effective May 1, Morrison's supply was cut by one-third. The cut back is to last three months, he said.

To illustrate the effect the cutback will have on his operation Morrison cited the following figures: During the past three months he has sold 44,800 gallons, 37,967 gallons, and 42,891 gallons respectively.

The cutback holds him to a maximum supply of 30,000 gallons per month.

In response to the cutback, Morrison said he is forced to close his station on weekends.

"So far there's no indication it will raise prices," he said of the Conoco action.

Morrison said he's been told by company officials that the cutback is scheduled to last only two summer months but could go into a third month depending on demand.

"The other day I was really blue, but one of my longtime customers came in and he's a barber" Morrison said. "He owned three barber shops when this long hair hit and he said he couldn't make it. So I don't feel so bad."

Wayne Brewer of Mobil Oil Co. of Canyon, a distributor and retailer for Mobil products, said his company has placed dealers on a quota system similar to that placed on Phillips service stations.

The quota is only on the wholesale product with the decision as to whether to pass it on left up to the wholesaler.

The system was initiated by Mobil as of May 1 and is based on sales recorded last spring by stations.

Brewer said he still is not sure how much gasoline will be allotted his operation for May and the other months of the quota.

He explained the ramifications if demand outreaches the supply.

"Let's say you sold 40,000 gallons a month last year," he said. "They come back and give you 40,000 gallons for May. If your sales are under 40,000 gallons fine. But, if your sales are up and ahead of last year's and you've sold 40,000 gallons in three weeks, then you'll just have to shut down."

Brewer said company officials have said the quota is in effect for the remainder of 1973.

He said a control measure he's considered to keep demand at a lower level is to simply increase the price of his gasoline per gallon.

Mike Lewis of Lewis Airspeed in Canyon said a company official told him there is a possibility his station might be faced with a cutback later in the Regents meet on candidates following interviews on campus

The board of regents of West Texas State University convened Saturday to continue discussions concerning the next president of the Canyon university.

No announcement of a new president was expected, however.

The board meeting followed three days of interviewing and receiving on campus of four candidates for the presidency, candidates who travelled from as far away as Iowa to meet with students, faculty and administration representatives.

The four also met with the public during brief sessions Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The four to visit last week were Dr. T. Paige Carruth, WTSU vice president for student affairs; Dr. Leon S. Pope, associate dean of agriculture at Texas A&M University; Dr. W. A. "Bill" Miller, chairman of the division of higher education at North Texas State University; and Dr. Lloyd I. Watkins, president of the Iowa Association of Private Colleges and Universities.

Each candidate went through a rigor of meetings with a student committee, a faculty committee and an administrative committee before meeting the public in a reception.

The receptions, however, were scantily attended by the public. A maximum of about 35 persons, by far most of them being WTSU professors, attended each reception to shake hands and chat briefly with each candidate.

At least two university regents have indicated the search for a replacement for soon-retiring Dr. James P. Cornette may take longer than regents had at first anticipated. It was expected at week's end that the search would not stop with the visit to campus of the four candidates.

In hastily assembled and brief press conferences, the candidates outlined their views while on campus.

DR. CARRUTH

Dr. Carruth told the press he sees the president of the university taking an active role in affecting overall changes in many areas.

He said he believes he has enough financial acumen to run the financial affairs of the university, an adriotness in promoting legislation and an ability to work with area patrons.

Dr. Carruth said he believes the university cannot limit itself to simply serving the Panhandle area, that the university must strive to attract students from throughout the state.

"One of the urgent areas we need to continue on is in recruiting of students in metropolitan areas," he said. "I have two programs in mind I think will work." He would not reveal the substance of the two programs.

Dr. Carruth called for increased involvement of faculty and students in the university.

"I don't mean turning it over to them, but incorporating them into the process where they can gain input in the administration," he said. "One of our prime problems has been lack

Diamond, grid, cinders, court are homes for CHS athletes

Four athletes at Canyon High School have earned letters in four major sports — football, basketball, baseball and track.

Bill Moore, Ed Lair, Ronnie Hicks and Raby Ratliff each have been cited for their participation in the various sports during the past year.

Moore, a fullback and quarterback on the football team, was named to the All-District second team despite injuries that kept him sidelined much of the season.

A starter in basketball, Moore played forward and was considered a team leader.

In baseball, he served as both pitcher and catcher and to date has contributed several timely base hits. During the early part of the season, he hurled a one-hitter.

As a member of the track team, Moore was a broad jumper.

He is president of the Student Council and a member of the school band.

Said coach Ron Mills, "Bill is an All-American boy. He is strong and one of the most coachable young men I've ever been associated with. He is a good all around athlete and a top student."

Moore has accepted a four-year football scholarship at Baylor University.

Lair, a junior this year, was the quarterback on the Eagle football team and was named All-District at that position.

A forward in basketball, Lair was a consistent scorer and team leader.

In baseball, he is both a pitcher and an infielder, and in track he was a high jumper.

Said Mills, "Ed is the best passing quarterback I've ever been around. He is a team leader and real sharp." The coach added, "The best thing about Ed is that he's only a junior and I'll have him back again next year."

Cates played end on the Eagle football team and was offered scholarships by one Missouri Valley Conference team and one Southwest Conference team. Instead of accepting an athletic scholarship, however, he has chosen to attend Baylor University on an academic scholarship.

Cates was a leading scorer at center on the basketball team and threw the discus in track.

In baseball, Cates holds down first base.

Cates is a member of the National Honor Society and ranked fourth in his graduating class.

According to coach Mills, "Ronnie has just begun to develop. He came on strong this year and still has a lot of time to reach his peak and develop." Mills added that Cates could make some university an outstanding athlete.

Cates was also a member of the CHS band.

Ratliff, a split end and punter on the football team, averaged 41.4 yards per punt.

In basketball, he was a guard, and in track he ran on the mile relay and sprint relay teams and he ran the 220-yard dash.

Ratliff is a pitcher on the baseball team.

Coach Mills said of Ratliff,

Eight leads announced for 8th 'TEXAS' season

The eight actors who will play leading roles in this summer's production of the musical-drama "TEXAS" have been announced by William A. Moore, director of the presentation.

Three of the lead characters have not been in previous "TEXAS" casts.

The three newcomers include Miss Cynthia Newman of Hobbs, N.M., who is currently a graduate assistant in speech at West Texas State University. She will portray Elsie.

The second newcomer in a major role will be Garland McKinney of Henryetta, Okla., who will portray Uncle Henry, the cattle baron of the "TEXAS" story.

Mitch Dean Hall of Sugarland, a student at Texas A&M, will be cast in the role of Dave Newberry, Uncle Henry's foreman and adversary of Calvin Armstrong.

The five leading actors who are returning to the "TEXAS" cast are Travis Dean as Calvin, Vicki McCormick as Kate, Jerry Williams as Tuck, Jane Lipscomb as Aunt Anna and Charles Wright as Jesse Armstrong.

Miss Newman, who is pursuing her master's degree at WTSU with emphasis on theatre, is a veteran of the stage. She was named the best actress in a production at the university for 1971-72 and has played in WTSU presentations of Hamlet, Night Thoreau Spent in Jail, The Little Foxes, Lion in Winter and Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolfe.

She has been production manager and sales manager for KHOB-AM and KLDG-FM radio stations in Hobbs.

McKinney has had major roles in two other outdoor dramas. In the Trail of Tears at Tallequah, Okla., he played the parts of Rations Boss and Stand Watie. In Trumpet in the Land in Dover, Ohio, the Paul Green play which opened in 1970, he played the leading role, the preacher, David Zeisberger.

A graduate of the University of Oklahoma, with an advanced degree from George Washington University, McKinney has had extensive experience in Texas and Oklahoma little theatre groups.

Hall, a member of the Aggie Players and the Singing Cadets, was Marco the Magnificent in Carnival and leads in Spoon River Anthology, Under the Sycamore Tree and The Emporer's New Clothes.

Dean first played the leading role of Calvin Armstrong last summer in the 7th "TEXAS"

Historical society will try again on annual banquet

The Panhandle Plains Historical Society is anticipating the arrival of Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe on Thursday to address an evening banquet audience in the East Dining Hall at West Texas State University. He is also expected to tour the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum.

The Governor's visit will mark his first appearance in the Panhandle since taking office. Originally scheduled for April 26, his trip was postponed to May 10.

The banquet, set for 7 p.m., had drawn 250 reservations as of Friday noon, according to spokesmen for the Panhandle Plains Historical Society. It is open to society members and friends, with tickets priced at $3.50. Reservations may be made or tickets purchased at the museum.

The Society's Annual Meeting will convene at 3 p.m. in the north art gallery of the museum with Virgil Patterson, president, conducting business.

Election of a new slate of officers, election of new directors, and the submission of committee reports will be items on the agenda of the afternoon meeting.

The list of nominees to fill top offices in the Panhandle Plains Historical Society for the coming year is headed by Irwin Ochsner, Amarillo attorney, for president. Others proposed for office are Jay Taylor, for first vice-president; Charles Woodburn, second vice-president; Mrs. S.B. Whittenburg, recording secretary; and Boone McClure, executive secretary-treasurer.

The nominating committee consists of Dr. James P. Cornette, Lawrence Hagy, Levi Cole and Newton Harrell. They have also proposed nominations for directors to replace those in the 120-man board who resigned or died in the past year. Nominations may also be presented from the floor.

Following the annual meeting of the Society, two directors will be elected by secret ballot to fill executive committee positions due to be vacated by Ed Harrell and Charles Woodburn. Current members on the executive committee who will continue in office are Levi Cole, James Witherspoon, Joe Pool, and Clarence Thompson.

The executive committee, which includes officers and six directors, has responsibility for approving expenditures, staff, and all administrative activities of the Society and the Panhandle Plains Museum. Affairs of the Museum are also reviewed by the Board of Regents.

According to Boone McClure, director of the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum and executive secretary-treasurer of the society, about 150,000 persons, including about 30,000 school children, visited the museum in 1972.

The museum is operating on a budget of $146,400 for 1973. While appropriations for 1974 and 1975 have not been set definitely by the legislature, they

Choirs win downstate in contests

The three choirs of Canyon High School each were awarded Division I ratings during awards ceremonies held Saturday morning at the Sea-A-Rama Choir Contest in Galveston.

The boys, girls and mixed choirs, under direction of Tom Jennings, were in Galveston as the highlight of a four-day trip which included singing stops at Wichita Falls and Irving.

A spokesman for the choir said individual and school awards were to have been presented in ceremonies late Saturday evening. Awards to any Canyon students will be listed in The News on Thursday.

WTSU athletes due honors Tuesday nite

West Texas State University's athletes will be honored at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the East Cafeteria on campus at the annual all-sports banquet.

Kenneth Wyatt of Tulia, western painter and humorist, will be the featured speaker.

Athletes in football, basketball, track, tennis, golf and rifle team will be honored at the banquet. Awards will be presented in football, basketball, tennis, track and golf.

The Kleinschmidt Awards will be presented to the most valuable players in football and basketball. Those awards were started in 1936 by J. Wesley Kleinschmidt, Canyon businessman, and he makes presentation of the awards at each athletic banquet.

The President's Award, started in 1955 by WTSU president Dr. James P. Cornette, goes annually to the football player showing, "citizenship, leadership, loyalty and cooperation, improvement in ability and general attitude."

The Fighting Heart Award in basketball was first awarded in 1954 by the Canyon Rotary Club at the suggestion of Dr. Dudley Moore and is presented to the player exhibiting the greatest hustle and desire to compete.

The Canyon Rotary Club also presented the Terry Smith Award in tennis. That award is presented in memory of Smith, a former Buffalo tennis player who was killed in a motor vehicle accident while he was still a student at West Texas State.

In track, the Canyon Kiwanis Club presents a most valuable award to the athlete making the most contributions to the team's effort. The Evening Lions Club of Canyon presents the most valuable award in golf.

The Canyon Lions Club also presents the Senior Athlete Academic Award to the senior who carries the highest grade point average.

State inspector to eye buildings

A State Building Commission inspector will be on the West Texas State University campus this week to look over the science and library buildings now under construction to check for compliance with a state law which requires new buildings to provide accessibility to the handicapped.

The inspector will meet with architect representatives on the two buildings to ensure they understand requirements they must meet under the law, according to Commission official Doug Lawson of Austin.

Lawson said architects for the two buildings have not yet filed a statement indicating their compliance with a state law which requires adequate facilities be installed for use by persons on crutches or in wheelchairs.

Officials of the Texas Rehabilitation Commission and the state building commission have corresponded with university officials about the statement of compliance, Lawson said. They have not yet received the statement.

Little things get you down

New Mailbox

It's the little things that can get you down.

Take Paul Lindsey, for instance.

When Lindsey, a county commissioner, built his house at 1111 Creekmere, he placed his mailbox in a location at the side of his home fronting on a wide driveway. The mailbox's location, he thought, would save the postman some steps since he could simply drive in the Lindsey driveway and deposit the mail from his vehicle.

Things are never that simple.

Postal regulations require that homeowners in new developments place their mailboxes in front of their houses at the sidewalk.

Now, according to Mrs. Lindsey, the regular postman on her route has consistently placed the Lindsey mail in the side-of-the-house mailbox.

But, substitute postmen have refused to do so.

Our World

Religion Even More Popular

By ANN BROWN

Religion is becoming an increasingly popular study in American colleges — and even public schools. The study is not confined to off-campus classes taught by privately supported ministers, but is eagerly pursued in regular history, English and psychology classes.

Shades of Madalyn O'Hair! Call the cops! Where is the Supreme Court? Is nothing being done to eliminate this dangerous situation?

Oh, but it is not the Bible that is being studied or Christianity that is discussed; it's witchcraft, voodoo, the black arts, and Satanism.

That is different, of course. Could such innocuous pagan studies possibly disturb immature psyches, or lead young people astray?

What do parents who never attended a seance held in the nude - know about such edification? And what Christian preacher appreciates the esthetic value of performing a wedding ceremony over an altar composed of a naked young woman?

Research of such enobling experiences is obviously making a tremendous impact on the students. Witchcraft with its various forms of Satanism is gaining adherents at a phenomenal rate.

Perhaps the foremost leader of Satanism is Anton Szandor LaVey. He organized the First Church of Satan in San Francisco, and is known as "America's Black Pope."

This relatively new "church" already has 10,000 carefully screened members. What Christian church can boast such rapid growth?

LaVey preaches the doctrine of selfishness, and says that sin brings joy and fulfillment. (He doesn't say for how long.)

Louise Huebner is known as the "Good Witch of the West." She is Los Angeles' official witch. She writes a syndicated column, lectures on witchcraft, speaks on the college circuit, and casts spells for women's clubs and other social groups.

Huebner's popular book, "Power Through Witchcraft," and her LP record, "Seduction Through Witchcraft," are both in great demand. The University of Washington has granted her an honorary degree for her contribution to society.

Even witches agree that there are only two forces in the world: good and evil. The basic doctrine of witchcraft is the rejection of God and good, and the elevation of Satan and evil.

According to witchcraft, it is as natural with man to do evil as it is weeds to grow in an untended garden; therefore, he can expect to find his only happiness through evil doing. Witches regard all good behavior as hypocrisy.

(If farmers ever embrace that doctrine, we had better cultivate a taste for thistles, ragweed, and buffalo grass.)

In 1949, according to Grolier's Encyclopedia, belief in witchcraft had "practically disappeared from civilized society, but in remote parts of the world, even in some parts of the U.S., this pagan religion still holds sway."

Various commentators have opined that the permissive atmosphere of the last decade fostered the open practice of witchcraft.

This same atmosphere that encourages the study of witchcraft has forbidden even the reading of the Bible or the repetition of a simple prayer in our public schools.

Permissive? Permissive of what?

Do Americans really prefer an evil society to a good one?

Peter Haining's "Witchcraft and Black Magic," Richard Cavendish's "The Black Arts," and Louise Huebner's "Power Through Witchcraft" are all on the approved reading list for college students — recommended by Christian teachers.

How many of those same Christian teachers have recommended their students read Billy Graham's "Peace With God?" Or Hannah Smith's "The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life?" Or Clyde Narramore's "This Way to Happiness?" Or the Bible?

Christianity contends that every man has the right to decide what he wants out of life, and develop the best means for attaining his goals — provided he does not violate the laws of God or the rights of others.

The basic tenet of witchcraft is rejection of God, and preying on others.

Is it surprising that a society which fosters witchcraft and discourages Christianity would grow increasingly evil?

"In God We Trust" our coins proclaim. If we trust in God, why isn't His word studied in American schools instead of Satanism?

Babe Ruth Schedule

The Randall County Babe Ruth League got under way Saturday with two games at the Babe Ruth field at Conner Park. Results of those games will appear in the Thursday issue of The Canyon News.

The league consists of four teams. The teams and coaches are White Sox, Max Crawford; Pirates, A.J. Luquette; Giants, David Ashby; and Cardinals, Lynn Salmon.

In the following schedule, the first named team will be visitors and will use the west dugout. The last named team will be at home and use the north dugout.

After the games of June 30, an All-Star Tournament Team will be selected. The 1973 District 1 tournament is scheduled to be in Canyon July 9 through 14.

A home-and-home zoned tournament for 13-year-olds will be held July 1 through 7.

President of the league is W.A. (Bill) Cooper. Other officers are Beuell Martin, vice president; George Ritter, secretary; and Benny Cooper, treasurer.

A Bombshell On The Campus

By CARROLL WILSON

To say that the announcement last week that Dr. T. Paige Carruth's still in the running for the presidency of West Texas State University hit like a bombshell on campus would be an understatement.

To put it plainly, Carruth is not a popular campus figure with many faculty members.

The announcement that Dr. Bill Miller is still in the running came as no real surprise to most folks, since he's considered the favorite of strong board of regents chairman Cloyce Box.

At this writing, I don't know what action the board of regents has taken during their Saturday meeting. I don't believe a new president was to be a result of that meeting.

The feeling is growing more and more prevalent, and I support it, that the regents should stand back, take a little more time and continue their search for a college president.

Nobody, frankly, wants to see a compromise candidate elevated to the university presidency. We want and demand the right man. Not the man whose best friends have power and influence. The right man.

Because of the hurry-up nature of last week's interviews of the candidates on campus, and in fact the hurry-up nature of this whole search, I think the regents need to slow down a bit.

The hurry-up nature of last week's candidates' visits leaves many people with the impression that the visits were simply window-dressing, an attempt by the regents to make the faculty, administrators and students at WTSU think they were really given a voice in the selection procedure.

This impression has gained credence.

I personally, was most impressed by Dr. Lloyd Watkins, now president of the Iowa Association of Private Colleges and Universities. He's obviously an experienced lobbyist and he's got an enthusiastic air about him. A personable man, I think he understands exactly what the role of both a college president and a college should be in this fast-changing world.

Obviously, Texans of long ago, the ones who formulated our current constitution, had little faith in legislators.

Very many things of any importance to the people of the state are within the constitution and can only be changed by the people in a direct vote.

This is close to the concept of a true democracy. In Texas, then, we have a mix of true and representative democracy.

The tendency for the new state constitution is going to be to generalize the constitution and leave the powers to implement general guidelines to the legislature.

Frankly, I'm not convinced that legislators have the time and ability to handle the job they will be handed in a new constitution. And, frankly again, I'm not sure I trust them to do it for me.

Take, for example, the proposal of Chief Justice Robert Calvert to rebuild the state's judiciary system. Calvert's plan has drawn fire from local level officials throughout the state, because it generalizes the power of the people.

Section 9, paragraph (a) of his proposal says: "The legislature shall provide for the election and duties of a district attorney and district clerks in each judicial district and for the election and duties of a sheriff and a county clerk in each county. . ."

Thus, where in the old constitution it would simply state that the sheriff and the county clerk were to be elected by the people, the new proposal would have the legislators decide how these folks would be elected.

Calvert's proposal has not been heavily pushed in this term of the legislature. For good reason — since it is wholly concerned with constitutional elements, it will be a moot point in light of the constitution revision commission.

But, guess who's running the constitution revision commission? Judge Robert Calvert. So, it's a sure bet his proposal will be included in the first drafts of any constitution.

are expected to equal or surpass the requested sums of $169,135 for 1974 and $161,570 for 1975.

McClure said he felt the fact the state legislature has appropriated more funds than requested for the past eight years is an indication members hold the museum in high esteem.

The museum director also estimated that the total value of new acquisitions in the past year would be about $5,000,000. Among the valuable new historical exhibits he named a collection of weapons from the Vietnam War on permanent loan from the United States Government and a number of horse-drawn vehicles given by a Victoria, Texas rancher and farmer.

Paintings by Ben Carlton Meade of Dallas and silk screen paintings by Tenkei Tachibana have also added to the value of exhibits in the last year, he said.

Museum Director Boone McClure is scheduled for retirement in August 1974 after 32 years in that office. He explained extra funds had been requested for 1974 in order to proceed with hiring and training of a replacement.

Mrs. Lindsey said her husband has not yet had time to move their mailbox.

State...

Virgil Henson, to whom the correspondence was mailed, was not available for comment last week. He is financial vice president for WTSU.

Lawson said a statement of compliance is not required by law but is policy of the state building commission since it gives indication that architects and contractors are aware of their lawful obligations.

The state building commission is the enforcement agency for the law.

Lawson said the inspection next week will simply be an academic matter, a vehicle to allow the inspector to talk with architects about the requirements of the law. He said true compliance with the law cannot really be assessed until the buildings are completed.

Ray Vaughn of the state rehabilitation commission said he does not now know whether the architect's plans for the buildings include the necessary items to provide for compliance with the law.

"We haven't heard from them," he said.

Orrell Vise, rehabilitation counselor for the state agency on the WTSU campus, explained why state financed buildings should include features which allow use by the handicapped.

"The state is spending over $30 million a year to rehabilitate the handicapped, but we're still spending tax dollars building buildings all over the nation that make it difficult to rehabilitate people," he said. "If they're going to be rehabilitated they've got to get into the buildings. If they're going to work they've got to be able to get into buildings."

Vise said there is no excuse for the construction of new buildings which limit access to only those persons who can walk and open doors.

Because the majority of the current buildings on the WTSU campus are not so constructed that handicapped persons can even gain entry into them, Vise said he sends many severely disabled persons to other universities.

Vise said the university has made several inroads into solving the barrier problem. Academic officials have rearranged class meeting rooms so persons with disabilities can attend classes in buildings with elevators.

"The Student Union Building, as far as I know, is the only building a wheelchair could get into with little trouble," he said. "There's always at least a step and just an inch stops a wheelchair."

Vise said probably 10 to 15 severely disabled students attend WTSU.

But, he said, long flights of stairs can be hazardous even for many professors on campus who have suffered heart trouble.

And, "architectural barriers are not necessarily the buildings themselves but what is in the buildings," he said.

If you're in a wheelchair, for example, how do you get a drink of water from a water fountain? How do you use bathroom facilities?

"The handicapped, I think, are not asking for front door entrance," he said. "They're just asking for a way to get in.

"If we're going to build new buildings don't make the mistake of shutting out the handicapped kids."

Dr. Urban To Retire From WT Physics Dept.

Professor John S. Urban will retire from the physics department at West Texas State University this month after 17 years of instructing.

A native of Missouri, Dr. Urban completed his undergraduate work at Missouri State College, Maryville, Mo. He received his master's degree in 1934 from the University of Missouri, and his Ph.D. in 1956 from the University of Oklahoma.

The retiring physics professor first began teaching in the Cameron, Mo., high school as instructor in chemistry, physics and general science. From 1937 to 1942 he taught physics, algebra and calculus at Moberly Junior College in Missouri.

During the years of World War II, he was stationed at several airbases in the Midwest as navigation instructor for the U.S. Army Air Corps.

Following military duty, Dr. Urban taught physics at Centenary College in Shreveport, La. from 1946 to 1951. He left that position to work for five years on his doctorate at the University of Oklahoma. His dissertation was concerned with tracking cosmic rays in nuclear photographic emulsions.

Dr. Urban joined the physics department of WTSU in 1946 when he and Dr. Jerry Bullock made up the entire teaching staff. Many of his students are pre-med and pre-dental students. He is a member of the American Assn. of Physics Teachers and Sigma Xi, science honorary.

Dr. and Mrs. Urban reside at 2420 14th Ave. They have one son, Bill, married, and four grandchildren. They are members of the First United Methodist Church.

Dr. Urban says he intends to spend some of his leisure time at the family farm in Missouri and also follow his favorite sport, baseball.

News Brief

The Randall County Farm Bureau board of directors will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Farm Bureau Building, according to Joe Turpin, president.

OPI Begins Canyon Drive

The Canyon division of the Opportunity Plan, Inc., kicked off a major drive for contributions last week through a concentrated person-to-person effort.

The drive will end May 24.

Headed by County Judge Woody Pond, the Canyon division will seek contributions from private citizens.

The local division has been functioning since last summer and currently three students are attending school on Canyon division funds.

Several local contributors this week said they believe the Opportunity Plan offers unique opportunities for contributors as well as students.

"The Opportunity Plan, as conceived and implemented by Mr. Milton Morris at West Texas State University, offers the young person the rare opportunity to become independent," said Dr. Emilio Caballero, head of the WTSU art department and a consistent contributor. "The plan gives the student a sense of self-worth because it encourages and stimulates self-reliance and self-discipline."

"I personally have known of three students who the Opportunity Plan has helped immensely, worthy students who have gone on and been a credit to the university, who would not have been able to do so if it were not for the Opportunity Plan, said Dr. Sam Urban, professor and former physics department head.

Several Canyon contributors have initiated or continued OPI divisions, divisions such as the Clyde W. Warwick Memorial Fund, the C. R. Burrow Memorial Student Loan Fund, the Edwin McKinney Boswell Jr. Fund and the Joe and Louise Gibson Fund.

Persons not contacted locally to contribute to the Opportunity Plan may do so by calling Judge Pond.

Greatest Love Story Of All To Be Presented On Campus

For those whose springtime fancies have turned to thoughts of love, the West Texas State University Student Activities Council is presenting the greatest love story of them all — Romeo and Juliet.

The New Shakespeare Company of San Francisco will be featured in performance of the drama 8:30 p.m. Tuesday on the south porch of the Education Building. In the event of bad weather, the performance will be in the WTSU Fieldhouse.

The 26-member acting troupe is charged with the goal of "giving Shakespeare back to the rightful owners — the people," and with that end in mind, the ensemble has performed in public parks, libraries, museums, colleges and town squares throughout the country.

The company's players vary in age from 19 to 26 and handle all aspects of production themselves. The company is based at Trinity Episcopal Church in San Francisco.

In trying to illuminate the meaning of Shakespeare with a fiery spirit and a sparkling wit, the troupe strives to present a freer, lighter Shakespeare through informal stagings and the use of a thrust stage, which brings the actors in closer contact with the audience.

"We have a lot of people who don't believe these are Shakespeare's words we are saying. But he did write things like "Right on!," says a cast member.

"People who see our shows suddenly realize they understood what the man was trying to say. He's 400 years old — and the times have changed but the relationships of person to person and group to group have not."

Dr. A. Kirk Knott, professor of English at WTSU and a Shakespearean authority, says he rereads the Bard's works before going to any performance.

"I expect I've read some of his plays 100 times . . . I need to read them 100 more times."

He recommends that viewers read the plays before they attend them. "Shakespeare, above all else, was a poet. He remains to this day our greatest poet," Knott says.

"When students ask me what Shakespeare was trying to say, I tell them, why he wasn't trying to say anything. He said it."

Kevin Gardiner (left) as Romeo and Mary Russo as Juliet will play the leading roles in the New Shakespeare Company's production of Romeo and Juliet at West Texas State University Tuesday night.

Visiting Philosopher Title Given WTSU Prof

A philosopher, or even a student of philosophy, is unusual in American society today, says a West Texas State University professor.

The profession may enjoy a renaissance in the future as more people become aware that "we live in a time when 'the examined life' is no longer a luxury but a necessity," adds Arthur Johnson, assistant professor of philosophy.

Johnson is one of several professors in the country participating in a visiting philosopher program for community and junior colleges sponsored by the Council for Philosophical Studies.

Among other participating schools are Princeton University, Notre Dame, University of Chicago, Northwestern University, Hunter College and University of California at Los Angeles.

The program, supported by the National Endowment for the Humanities, makes experienced teachers of philosophy available for short-term visits without cost to two-year colleges.

Through the program, colleges may request one or more visits by a philosophy professor within reasonable driving distance from their campus.

Johnson says he plans to cover an area not in excess of a 250-mile radius of Canyon and covering parts of Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma and Kansas.

The nature of the visits can vary depending upon the needs and interests of the host college, he says. In some cases the goal may be to achieve better working relations with neighboring institutions. Other visits may be used to engage members of the local community in a "continuing dialogue about issues of common concern."

The goal of the program is to "promote the exploration of ways to enhance present opportunities for the study of philosophy and the humanities," he adds.

Johnson holds two degrees from the University of Nebraska, and is working toward a doctorate at that institution

Banquet Held By Bible Groups

A banquet celebrating the first year of Friendship Bible Coffees in the Panhandle was attended by about 40 women Thursday evening, May 5, in the Green Room of the cafeteria at West Texas State University.

Mrs. Marilyn Johnson, coordinator of Friendship Bible Coffees in the Panhandle, was mistress of ceremonies.

Friendship Bible Coffees are interdenominational Bible study groups composed of ladies, couples, and teens. They are sponsored by Stonecraft Ministries of Kansas City, Mo.

The coffees are planned as neighborhood Bible study groups, each under the leadership of a guide appointed by the coordinator. Guides for the Panhandle area include Mmes. Mary Lee Staton, Glenna Wilson, Joan Fowlkes, Agnes Fanning, Carol McKinney, Thelma Ruth Childs, Grace Knighton, Francine Lanier, Ann Thomason, Kathryn Cornell, and Yvonda Stokes.

Reception Will Honor Retiring Miss Claudia Neelley

When Miss Claudia Neelley began her teaching career 45 years ago in a one-room schoolhouse west of Canyon, it took a measure of discipline, a good deal of patience and bounding enthusiasm to handle children in seven grades alone.

The assets Miss Neelley brought to Wilson School between Canyon and Umbarger when she was just 18 years of age leave intact with her this spring as she retires after 13 years as an art teacher at West Texas State University.

Miss Neelley, assistant professor of art at WTSU, will be honored from 2 to 4 p.m. today with a reception sponsored by the university art faculty and Kappa Pi, honorary art fraternity. The reception will be in the formal lounge of the Fine Arts Building on campus. The public is invited.

"I took my teaching seriously at the time and I was not much older than some of my children," Miss Neelley says of her first four years of teaching in the Wilson School.

With a degree from WTSU, Miss Neelley sought the job in the one-room schoolhouse because "I didn't think I'd do a good job teaching town students."

She applied to teach in five one-room schoolhouses and was accepted at the Wilson School, which served rural families between Canyon and Umbarger.

"I had a great time," she says of those early days of her profession. "It was a wonderful way to start a profession."

With enthusiasm for the job, Miss Neelley planned field trips and other events for her first students.

She had four students in the seventh grade, students who were to go on to schools in Canyon and Amarillo.

For those four students she planned an elaborate graduation ceremony complete with a processional and recessional, a graduation speech and entertainment.

"At the end of that year none of my students who went to Amarillo or Canyon schools had to be put back," she said. "That had been the procedure."

After four years in the country school, Miss Neelley accepted a job as art teacher at Abernathy, teaching fifth, sixth and seventh graders.

In one seventh grade art class, she had more than 50 students and only seven of them were girls.

"We really had a struggle," she recalls of the unruly boys.

"I've had more of those boys come to see me even in Canyon and thank me for what I tried to do for them."

Miss Neelley has obviously enjoyed her career in teaching.

A native of Olney, she received Bachelor of Science and Master of Arts degrees from WTSU. She also attended Texas Tech University and studied art under Grant Reynard of Leonia, N.J., and Emil Bistram of Taos, N.M.

Miss Neelley has also worked in Lubbock public schools. She was head of the Lubbock High School art department and coordinator of art for the Lubbock Public Schools from 1943 to 1961.

In 1966, Miss Neelley attended the World Craft Council and Convention in Lima, Peru. She has won regional and statewide recognition for her paintings, weaving and metalwork.

Miss Neelley is a member of the Texas Art Educators Association and the Texas State Teacher Association, of which she was district chairman several times.

She has two brothers, Bert Neelley with the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, and Prof. R. Lloyd Neelley with Midwestern University in Wichita Falls.

Summer Courses Set At WTSU

Marking the first time courses in journalism have been offered during summer sessions at West Texas State University, two classes are scheduled for the first term, opening June 4.

One of the courses, "Public Relations and Publicity," is new and has not been offered at WTSU previously. The other, "Artistic Photography," is a problems course. Both are offered for advanced credit, according to Bill R. Lee, journalism department chairman.

Study of public relations principles, publics, attitudes, and activities, and development of public relations programs for institutions, business and industry, and organizations, will be considered in Journalism 350.

Relations of groups with public media and the use of tools of public relations communications, such as house organs and brochures will be incorporated in the course.

The photography class will be flexible to meet the needs of individual students. Advanced photography students may pursue special projects, while attention will be given to school publications directors in setting up and refining photography programs for school needs.

"We will investigate picture taking and laboratory equipment for effective use and consider purchase of equipment and supplies, laboratory layout applicable to particular school programs," said Gort Rushmer, instructor for the class.

Both courses may be applied toward degree programs in journalism, or for certification in journalism for area teachers.

Accent on the Arts

By JUNE DAYEN

THE "TEXAS" CAST for the 1973 production as well as winners of drama awards in the fine arts department of West Texas State University should be announced in news stories today.

Four of the "Texas" leads—Travis Dean playing Calvin Armstrong, Cindy Newman playing Elsie, Vicki McCormick as Kate, and Jerry Williams as Tuck—provided a field night for camera bugs of the Amarillo Photographic Society last Tuesday evening.

Panhandle Plains Historical Museum opened up "Pioneer Village" to the "Texas" stars and photography buffs, who had a marvelous time shooting all sorts of quaint pictures. The society numbers about 50 members — men and women of all ages.

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the Panhandle Plains Historical Society will be at 3 p.m. on Thursday, May 10, in the North Art Gallery at the Museum.

As this column goes into the printing room, Gov. Dolph Briscoe is still scheduled to speak at the banquet, which begins at 7 p.m. in the East Dining Hall.

JUDGING BY ACTIVITIES scheduled this week at WTSU, it appears an arts festival is in full swing. Pity the undergraduates who are finishing up papers and cramming for exams.

SOPRANO GENIE McCAUSE will present her senior recital this afternoon at 3 p.m. in the Branding Iron Theatre.

Having lived in Canyon for many years and attended schools here until senior year, Mrs. McCause is known to many in this area. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Tom Knighton, 1819 7th Ave., and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Knighton of Longview, who will be coming to Canyon this weekend for the recital.

Genie is now the wife of Doug McCause, a Phillips band director, and they make their home in Borger. He will accompany her in the recital.

TOMORROW EVENING AT 8 p.m. the Amarillo Repertory Dance Company will present an evening of dance in the Branding Iron Theatre. Included in the presentation will be "Sprites," "New Orleans," and "Pas de Quarte." Other numbers to be performed are "Shaft," "Superstar," and a comedy number, "Ode to a Leaky Faucet."

Proceeds from the show will go to the Alpha Psi Omega scholarship fund. Some may recall the excellent performance of "Shaft" in the ballet presentation late last summer in the Palo Duro Amphitheater.

THE AFTERNOON OF the same day, Monday at 4 p.m., five music students selected by the WTSU music faculty as outstanding in their areas of performance, will be featured in the Awards Day Honors Recital in the Branding Iron Theatre.

Those honored will be pianist Carol Mahler, Abagan, Iran junior; bassoonist David Smith, Edinburg senior; violinist Karen Newton, Lubbock senior; bass-baritone Rodney Miller, Midland senior; and French hornist Karen Schoenberger, Hurst senior.

"ROMEO AND JULIET" by the New Shakespeare Company of San Francisco will be presented Tuesday at 8:30 on the south porch of the Education Building on the WT campus—and everyone in Canyon is invited, courtesy of the Student Activities Committee.

This young and talented group of touring actors must be outstanding because they have drawn cheers from such widely divergent spokesmen as Arthur Ross of the Los Angeles Free Press ("Theirs is a living reverence. . . for the actions that embody and electrify the language") and David Sterritt of the Christian Science Monitor ("joyfully energetic every step of the way. . .").

"THE NEW DAY Singers," a pop group, will be giving a concert Thursday evening at 8 p.m. in the Branding Iron Theater.

This is the group scheduled for a U.S.O. tour of the Caribbean next summer. Included are Rene Clemente, Steve Garms, Jeryl Hoover, Andy and Phil Dietz, Cherryl Richardson, Vicki McFarlin, Dana Gibson, and Linda Adams.

Dr. Hugh Sanders directs the group, Jeryl Hoover plays piano and drums, and the Dietz twins play guitar.

A SENIOR ART exhibit by Susan Davis will be opened for viewing at 2 p.m. today in the Formal Lounge of the Fine Arts Building.

High Pointer Signs With WT

Bob Miller, a sharp-shooting guard from Long Island, has signed an athletic scholarship agreement with West Texas State University basketball coach Ron Ekker.

The 6-3½, 175-pound Miller averaged 20.6 points per game this past season for Seaford High School in Long Island, N.Y.

Miller pulled in an average of 13 rebounds per game this past season, despite the fact he was playing guard. He averaged 17.5 points and 12 rebounds as a junior.

Seaford compiled a 9-9 season record this past year. Miller was named the most valuable player in the Hyde Park Christmas Tournament, in which Seaford won the team title.

"Bob is a tremendous shooter," said Seaford High coach Dave Gordon. "He hit over 50 per cent of his field goal attempts and many of his shots were from the outside."

Gordon said Miller has both quick hands and quick feet.

"He is an unselfish player and I consider him a blue-chip prospect," said Gordon.

Miller selected West Texas State over such colleges as St. Peters, Manhattan, Niagara and St. Bonaventure. He is the second player to be signed by new Buffalo coach Ron Ekker. The first signee was 6-2 Howard Taylor from Northwest Junior College in Mississippi, the nation's seventh leading scorer this past season. Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller and plans to major in physical education.

WT Professor To Washington

West Texas State University professor Ghassan Arnaoot has been granted a two-year leave of absence from the university to work with the International Monetary Fund in Washington, D.C.

The Fund, is an international organization much like the United Nations. It supervises monetary exchanges and the value of currency.

Arnaoot, who has been with WTSU since 1968, will be on the staff of the Fund as an economics expert.

He said his background in research into petroleum economics and his familiarity with the Middle East will be definite assets in his job.

The job will also add a depth to his teaching, he said, since it will provide practical experience to his academic background.

Arnaoot is a graduate of the University of Cairo and received his PhD. from the University of Texas.

Dr. Carr Is Commissioned

Dr. Hiram T. Carr, local dentist, was commissioned as a lieutenant commander in the United States Naval Reserve on Tuesday evening, May 1 at the Naval Reserve Center in Amarillo.

He had previously served in the U.S. Navy in a non-commissioned status during the Korean War. His entrance into the Naval Reserve was in response to a call for more medical and dental personnel to serve in times of emergency.

Dr. and Mrs. Carr moved to Canyon about seven years ago, after his graduation from the University of Louisville Dental School. They reside at 1426 Hillcrest with their son, Tommy, 12.

Buffs Are 3rd In NTSU Meet

West Texas State University's track team will take a break from meet competition until the Missouri Valley Conference Meet May 19-20 in Memphis, Tenn.

The Buffaloes placed third in a three-way meet Thursday at North Texas State in Denton. Host North Texas State won the meet with 107 points. TCU totaled 44 and West Texas managed 29.

The top placers for West Texas were Jim Hogan, second in the mile run, and Warren Snow, second in the pole vault. Hogan ran his season's best time — 4:13.5. His best previous effort was 4:13.7 in the Texas Relays.

Snow vaulted 15-0 for a second place finish. That was three inches below his top performance of the season. Snow has won the Missouri Valley Conference pole vault title for the past two seasons with 15-0 efforts.

Brad Garner Gets Top Music Award

Brad Garner, CHS junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Garner, 8 Country Club Dr., was selected for the "Young Artist's Award," the top award given an individual performer at the Greater Southwest Music Festival just concluded in Amarillo. Brad, who plays flute, auditioned for the honor against 17 other young musicians.

The distinction of playing with the Amarillo Symphony on Saturday night at the Civic Center Auditorium went with the award. He also received a gift certificate from Blackburn's in Amarillo.

Brad has won 20 first division awards in band instrumental competitions, and has been named an "outstanding" performer at three Greater Southwest Music Festivals and also at three state competitions.

The mile relay team representing the 9th grade at Canyon Junior High School last weekend set a school record when they posted a 3:42.7 mark at the district meet in Pampa. The team members, with coach Rick Stewart, are Lyndon Brazile, Ron Mills Jr., Phillip Halsted and Allen Shankles.

C of C To Eye Solicitations, Canyon Days

A report on a proposed solicitation ordinance for Canyon will be aired Monday night by directors of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce.

The directors meet at 7:30 p.m. in the community center.

The proposed ordinance would set up a regulatory body for solicitations for funds in Canyon.

Also on the agenda is a report by President Raymond Raillard of a recent Amarillo-Canyon chamber committee meeting on proposals to help bolster student enrollment at West Texas State University.

David West, director, will report on the Parade of Homes which is scheduled this summer.

Further plans will also be laid on the annual Canyon Days Celebration set in July here.

WT Administrator On Advice Council

To be seen in leading TEXAS roles this summer are Vicki McCormick as Kate and Jerry Williams as Tuck. The two posed for photography club Tuesday evening in "Pioneer Village" at the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum.

Elm Leaf Beetle Back

The elm leaf beetle is back.

"It looks like we may as well be prepared for another infestation of the elm leaf beetle which is spread all over the South Plains area including the total Panhandle," County Agent John Brazzil said.

The small elm leaf beetle practically defoliated Canyon's elm trees last summer and it has made an early return to attack anew the primary shade and ornamental tree in Canyon.

Brazzil said the beetle has returned and should begin laying eggs soon. When the insect's life cycle reaches the larvae stage, the damage to leaves of elm trees begins.

"They deposit a cluster of small yellow eggs on the leaves and as soon as the larvae hatch, they skeletonize or eat all the green cell material from the leaves," Brazzil said. "They're very hungry."

Brazzil expects the first leaf damage to be noticed by residents in late May.

"If people wish to keep their elm trees they will have to realize they're going to be involved in control measures extensively through the summer months," he said.

Brazzil said there are several chemicals on the commercial market which can give temporary protection to elm trees.

"Most trees are large and it takes pressure equipment to do a good job of wetting," he said, noting that most residents will find it most feasible to hire professional tree spraying services.

"These insecticides have a short residue period, but in time their effectiveness is gone and a repeat spraying is necessary if control is to be accomplished," he said.

Brazzil said trees should probably be sprayed a minimum of every three to four weeks during the summer to prevent the defoliation of elm trees.

Noting last year's heavy infestation of the elm leaf beetle and the subsequent damage to elm trees here, Brazzil said a continued attack by the beetle, unchecked by spraying, will eventually result in damage to the trees.

"The trees will probably weaken and be more susceptible to disease and insects," he said. "One infestation will not destroy a tree, but it is a major contributing factor over the years."

Brazzil predicted the major buildup in elm leaf beetle population will come during June and July.

CHS Drama Class Sets Play

The first-year drama class of Canyon High School will present a drama, "I Never Saw Another Butterfly," on the nights of May 21 and 22 in the Speech & Drama Department's stage room.

Performances will begin at 8 p.m. on each date.

Speech and drama instructor Charles Wright said the play tells the story of young Jewish children growing up in Nazi concentration camps during World War II. "It is a study of the young people and what it was like for them," said Wright.

The class is composed of 33 students, mostly sophomores, with about 24 in the cast. The remaining students will handle production duties, such as lighting and sound effects.

Tickets will be $1 per person, either in advance from drama students or at the door.

summer.

"We're in good shape right now," he said.

That statement was mouthed more than once last week by Canyon service station owners who sell fuel products of companies other than Phillips, Conoco or Mobil.

Gene Buford, who runs a Shamrock station here, said, for example, that he's been told Shamrock dealers "can have more than we can use."

"They told us not to worry about it."

Hal DeFreece at University Chevron said he has been told by company officials that gas supplies will be plentiful this summer.

West Texas State's basketball team had a 9-17 record for the season and was 2-12 in its first year as a Missouri Valley Conference member. The tennis, track and golf seasons are still in progress.

The Buffalo tennis and track teams compete in the MVC spring sports meet May 19-21 in Memphis, Tenn. The golf team will play in the MVC golf tournament May 19-20 in Las Cruces, N.M.

I-27 Hearing 3 Months Away

A hearing will probably be held within the next three months on the final design of the proposed Interstate 27, which is scheduled to by-pass Canyon to the east when constructed.

C. W. "Chili" Smith, district engineer for the Texas Highway Department, said final approval of the design for the highway is pending.

The current U.S. 87 which passes through Canyon on 23rd Street is to be upgraded to an interstate highway. Current plans for the highway indicate it will pass Canyon to the east.

Evening Of Dance Is Monday At WT

The scholarships are presented annually to encourage students who are planning to continue studies in foreign languages.

of communication and input."

DR. POPE

Dr. Pope pointed to the end of the War in Vietnam, the hike in out-of-state tuitions and the construction of other institutions in the area as causes for WTSU's enrollment drop in recent years.

"As I look at the facilities, which I'm terrificly impressed with, I can't see anything but future growth. The next couple of years will be real important."

Dr. Pope said he believes WTSU should have an expanded role in state education.

"I don't think any institution of this size can be narrow in scope as far as the area it serves and the services it can render," he said. "There's a real opportunity for growth in the development of new programs and activities which would really help the area."

He said he favors establishment of a mechanism whereby faculty and students can exchange ideas with the administration.

Addressing himself to the criticism that he might be too agriculturally-oriented to make a well-rounded president, Dr. Pope said the criticism is not valid. Persons who would criticize him for his agriculture background "don't realize how agri-business has changed."

DR. MILLER

The president of WTSU should be primarily concerned with the welfare of the educational program of the students, Dr. Miller said, when eyeing the role a president should take.

The president should also work with the faculty and administrators to ensure a quality education is provided for the students.

In addition, he should be a spokesman for the university and should be able to establish public trust in the university. Work in the political arena and with area patrons is also viewed as important in the presidential role, Dr. Miller said.

"WT should be thought of as a major state university," Dr. Miller said. "By this, I mean it should concern itself with many-faceted programs."

Expanded programs should be sought in continuing education.

Although WT will continue to draw the bulk of its students from the Panhandle, the president should lead the university into developing programs which will gain state-wide recognition.

"We can and should move forward and become more state-wide oriented."

To bolster lagging enrollment, Dr. Miller sees opportunity to expand the graduate program of the university. He envisions establishment of a state-wide recruiting plan.

But, primarily, he stresses the continued push on a quality program which will in itself attract students.

"Word of mouth of students is the best way to attract other students," he said.

To stress the quality program of instruction, Dr. Miller sees a cooperative effort between faculty and administration and students.

In examining the role of a university president, Dr. Watkins said the biggest failing of higher education in the 1960s was a lack of vision and a lack of providing programs and courses to meet the needs of the students.

The role of the president, then, is in part to predict future trends and prepare the university to meet the future with new and challenging programs.

Dr. Watkins said although WTSU primarily serves the Panhandle, he does not believe any arbitrary boundary should be placed on the scope of university services.

"Suppose an institution such as WTSU were to develop certain unique programs in recreation leadership or geriatrics or in community services," he said. "Insofar as they are unique they could be offered to the entire area."

To recruit students for WTSU, Dr. Watkins sees several methods.

"One of the most important is to widen the concept of what the college-age group is," he said. Generally, it is considered that the college-age group is between 18 and 22 years of age.

"I don't accept that," he said. "I think college is for people who can profit from attending college."

WTSU's program should be offered to a much wider spectrum of students — housewives, businessmen, retired persons.

Students should be more involved in the administration of the university, too, to aid in recruiting.

The university needs to tell its story well and often to state residents through an active public relations program.

Alumni should also be used actively to help recruit, he said.

Dr. Watkins said in his present job he spends about 50 per cent of his time working with Iowa state legislators and with the federal government.

Since he took over his current position four years ago, the state appropriation for Iowa private colleges has jumped from about $4 million to more than $12 million.

900 Candidates For Degrees Announced At West Texas

More than 900 candidates for degrees have been announced by Dr. Ray A. Malzahn, West Texas State University vice president for academic affairs, marking the largest graduating class in WTSU history.

The candidates will participate in annual spring convocation Saturday at 4:30 p.m. in the Amarillo Civic Center. Rehearsal for the program will be at 10 a.m. Saturday in the center.

An academic processional will open the program Saturday afternoon with gowned students and faculty marching into the center to the accompaniment of the WTSU Symphonic Band, directed by Dr. Gary Garner.

Invocation and benediction will be given by the Rev. James Bethell, chaplain for the United Campus Ministry. The University Chorale, conducted by Dr. Hugh Sanders, and the Symphonic Band, will lead the Alma Mater closing the program.

VOE Students Take Civil Service Tests

The Vocational Office Education students of Canyon High School were given clerical Civil Service tests Friday morning at the high school.

Tests were administered by Mel Benesch of the Amarillo Civil Service office.

Mrs. Georgia Lee, class instructor, said the students have spent the past few weeks working on an Intensive Clerical and Civil Service Training handbook in preparation for the tests.

Students passing the test will be eligible for jobs in cities of their choice at salaries up to $5,828 per year, depending on the positions for which they were tested, said Mrs. Lee.

The Panhandle Council for Social Studies, made up of social studies teachers from throughout the area, will hold its annual banquet and meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

About 25 to 30 members are expected to attend, said council president Glenn W. Hughes, instructor of history and government at Canyon High School.

Federal Funds For Firehouse At Tanglewood

The City of Lake Tanglewood intends to use its federal revenue sharing money toward the construction of a fire station to house its recently acquired fire truck.

Mayor Tom Badrow said this week that to date the city has received a total of $811 in the federal funds. The 1972 total was $627 and the check for the first quarter of this year was $184, said the mayor. "It's running a bit higher than what we got in 1972," Badrow added.

According to the major, a drive is now under way to raise money to finish construction on the fire station.

This is a cooperative effort with the Palisades which has no firefighting equipment. "Our truck will fight fires at Tanglewood, the Palisades and anywhere in the area where it's needed," Badrow said.

Herschel Coffee, center, eyes a framed letter presented him Friday night by members of Omicron Delta Epsilon. Dr. Eldon Lewis, dean of the School of Business, right, and Jim Jenkins, West Texas State University Regent, pose with Coffee. Jenkins was keynote speaker at the affair.

Joint Recital Set Thursday For 2 Seniors

Mrs. Hooper, a student of George Eason of the WTSU music faculty, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hackett of Dumas. Mrs. Wood, who studies under Emerson Haraden, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olin L. Bridges of Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Wood will be featured in solo performance of Bach-Hoss's "Suite IV," and Mrs. Hooper in Beethoven's "Sonata No. 3." The duo will also perform Mozart's "Concerto No. 4," Scarlatti's "Sonata," Chopin's "Nocturne No. 1," Prokofieff's "Suggestion Diabolique" and Beversdorf's "Sonata for Horn and Piano."

The recital is presented in partial fulfillment of graduation requirements for a Bachelor of Music Education Degree.

Fire Damages Mobile Home

Quick action by Canyon volunteer firemen apparently saved a large mobile home from destruction when it burst into flames at Rockwell Acres Trailer Park Friday morning.

The trailer, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Andy DeWees, received heavy damage from fire and smoke. The fire was believed to have started in the utility room where a water heater, central heating unit and a washer and dryer were located.

The fire was reported at about 11 a.m. when no one was at home. Six units of the Canyon Volunteer Fire Department responded and had the blaze under control within minutes.

According to one member of the family, the recent windstorm had damaged the home and repairs had just been completed.

Detective Ernie Martinez of the Albuquerque Police Department came to Canyon Wednesday and left with the $15,000 in turquoise and silver jewelry recovered from a plane crash last month in north Randall County.
